LINCOLN'S FIRST WIFE SLAIN

HONORS OF KING PAID LENIN AS 500,000 FREEZE

Funeral Held in 35 Below Zero Cold.

MOSCOW, Jan. 27.—[By Associated Press]—Vladimir Ilyich Ulianov, whom the world knew as Nicholas Lenin, was entombed this afternoon. His followers of the ruler of soviet Russia had him an hour before his death paid him honors that a king might envy. They withheld for hours the bitter cold the bolshevik capital has known in years.

Half a million people marched or waited for eight hours in a temperature 35 degrees below zero for the privilege of passing the temporary mausoleum, a squat Asiatic structure, like the tomb of a Tartar khan, hastily built within the walls of the Kremlin walls.

Lenin's funeral was like a strange medieval painting—a great Tartar army on a crusade march, its red and black banners obscured by the smoke of camp fires and blurred by the steam of bodies of men and horses and fog which the cold air had turned into a wall of ice blue with frost particles.

Thousands Suffer Frost-bites.

The mausoleum was specially built to maintain a minimum temperature to preserve the body as long as possible, but many sought shelter in its cold depths to warm themselves. Only the sturdy Russian physique could withstand such cold, but even at that crowds suffered from frost-bites. Redoubled corps took soldiers and citizens in half frozen condition to hospital stations.

In contrast to most Moscow ceremonies there was no oratory; neither were there visible signs of mourning among the assembly. A "civil" gun was celebrated in the House of Unions, but before the tomb in Red Square a biblically phrased statement of the Russian soviets was read, in which Lenin was hailed as one of the saviors of mankind.

Trotsky, the war minister, was the only important Bolshevik official who was absent from the funeral ceremony. It is understood that he is in Caucasus, too ill to attend, but no authoritative announcement has been made regarding his condition.

The "Red Requiem."

What might be termed a "Red queen" marked the ceremonies in a House of Unions at 8 o'clock in the morning. The body of the Bolshevik leader lay on a bier decorated in red and black. The ciliated hall was decked with glistening chandeliers draped with black.

Those who gathered in the building, including the diplomatic corps, remained standing throughout, as in the mass church. A combined orchestra from the Moscow Grand theater and the Conservatory of Music broke a silence with the throbbing notes of the funeral march by Monushko, a Polish composer, which has long been adopted by the Russian revolutionaries as their hymn of death.

There were no speeches, nothing to disrupt the solemnity of the scene, except the changing of the guard of honor about the body, then thundering, wild compositions chosen from Wagner's "Rheingold," "Lohengrin," and "Götterdämmerung." There was not even a single sob, though "Krupskaya," Lenin's widow, stood near the catafalque dazedly at the face of her husband.

Antone Sings "Internationale." As the notes of Chopin's Funeral March died away, the entire audience, spontaneously, started singing in revolutionary words of Monushko's composition. You fall victims of the iron struggle—but then broke into the tones of the "Internationale."

The hall was cleared of all but near relatives and members of the central committee party for the final farewell. A guard of honor was changed for the last time in the House of Unions, and Nikolai Kravtsov, one of Lenin's closest associates, being among those who sat on the last watch.

When the lid was closed and the coffin was carried from the hall on the shoulders of pallbearers, among whom were high officials and peasants, their group included Stalin and Trotsky, and the second Kalinin and Krestin. The wreath bearers preceded the cortège as it proceeded down the icy streets, which were covered with sand to prevent slipping, and a close cordon of soldiers, who had their campfires and stood with attention, having to rock back and forth on one foot, and others to prevent freezing, though clad with heavy felt boots and hats.

HER FATE SEEN AS MOTIVE FOR DUAL MURDER

Expert Calls Aurora Killer Insane.

The possibility that Warren J. Lincoln murdered his first wife more than a decade ago entered the case of the eccentric lawyer-horticulturist yesterday.

Dissatisfied with the slayer's story that the "unwritten law" was the motive for killing Mrs. Lima Shoup Lincoln and her brother, Byron Shoup, Chief Frank Michelis of the Aurora police began working on the theory that the victim's threats to reveal the cause of his first wife's death prompted Lincoln to kill them.

How Did First Wife Die?

In Mount Pulaski and other towns of Logan county it is common gossip now the sensational developments in Aurora have opened the subject—that Lincoln poisoned his first wife, who formerly was Miss Blanche Rankin.

For several years Lincoln was postmaster at Mount Pulaski, and Lima Shoup was his assistant. His wife died suddenly and mysteriously. It was explained vaguely—that she had taken an overdose of headache powder.

There was no official investigation, but residents of the little Illinois town are expected to live, however.

The talk increased when Lincoln married Lima Shoup. Now—revived once more, after years of lying dormant—it is entering the investigation of the confessed murderer with startling impetus.

Logan County Man Waiting.

Evan Worth, state's attorney of Logan county, announced last night that he will not do anything at present, however, in connection with the case.

"I am waiting for the Aurora authorities to develop that," he said. "But there has been a great deal of talk about poisoning here. I am watching the case closely."

It is thought by downstate officials that Chief Michelis, whose patient persistence finally led to Lincoln's disclosure of the concrete block which held the dead heads of his two victims, is in a better position to obtain any other confession than they are.

Locate Lincoln's Sweetheart.

He did not even know he had hit the car until he was nearing Hammond station, about a mile down the track, and saw something black sticking to the pilot. Stopping the train, Engineer Shearn found the chassis of the automobile resting on the cowcatcher. Mrs. Doner lay on the wreckage with the body of the baby boy beside her.

The bodies of the other victims were found strewn along the right of way for a distance of severa hundred feet.

Captured After Chase.

After a chase of almost four miles, in which they traveled at forty-five miles an hour at times, Patrolman John Granata and Robert Payton of the west park police arrested two motorists, alleged to have been crazed by "moonshine." One of the prisoners, who fired at Patrolman Granata, surrendered a gun on his head when a bullet from the policeman's revolver grazed his skull. The driver, who reportedly was arrested after his car was crowded into the curb, was rendered unconscious when Granata hit him on the head with his revolver.

The two in the car gave their names as Anthony Kutash, 1028 North Wood street, and Joseph Sulkowski, 1429 Walton street.

Theodore Fair Killed.

Theodore Fair was killed while riding in a yellow cab when it collided with another machine at 73rd street and Bennett avenue Saturday night. He was secretary to Adam Wolf, county assessor.

The attorney general's telegram, which was dated at Miami, Fla., yesterday, is as follows:

"The President, the White House: May I again urge the desirability of you immediately appointing two outstanding lawyers, who, as such, shall at once take up all phases of the oil leases under investigation by the Senate or others and advise you as to the facts and law justifying legal proceedings of any kind?"

Fair to All, He Says.

"As you know, I do not desire to evade any responsibility in this or other matters, but considering that Mr. Fair and I served in the cabinet together this would be fair to you, to Mr. Fair, and the American people, as well as to the attorney general, the department of justice, and my associates and assistants therein."

"Their work can be done with or without the cooperation of the department of justice, or anybody connected therewith, as you and they may desire. The department of justice is at all times in a position to handle any matter at your service and at the service of your appointees in this connection."

was considering appointing special counsel before the public lands committee agreed to incorporate such directions to the President in the revised resolution drafted yesterday afternoon.

It is also a clear indication that the attorney general has no present thought of resigning his post under fire of this controversy. It would also indicate that the President has no thought at this time of asking the attorney general to resign.

Shakeup Is Predicted.

There was speculation also about the probable attitude of the Navy Dept., since it has been most critical of the naval oil reserves to the Doheny and Sinclair interests. Some Republican leaders insist that the President's firm attitude in the matter must inevitably lead to an enforced shakeup in his cabinet unless there are voluntary retirements.

Reporters were awaiting tonight that the President is preparing a general housecleaning and that several because of the government, among them that of internal revenue and the prohibition unit thereof, are to be reorganized in the near future.

Resolutions to Go Forward.

Democratic leaders tonight declared that the President's announcement would have no effect upon their plans to pass resolutions providing for cancellation of the Doheny and Sinclair oil leases in the Senate tomorrow. Senator Walsh made public the text of a new substitute proposal which was passed by the public lands committee late yesterday afternoon and which the Republican members of the committee agreed to support in principle.

It was this action which the Democrats had intended to take to President Coolidge, who was down the Potomac on the coast Mayflower by radio and which led him to summon a conference upon his return last night and issue the statement made public at midnight.

Walsh Makes Statement.

Senator Walsh said in commenting on the situation:

"After consultation with Senator Caraway, who acceded to my suggestion, it was decided to end this resolution, to act for action by the senate tomorrow."

"You will recall an executive session of the public lands committee late Saturday afternoon and when the matter of likelihood of Senate action tomorrow was under discussion I announced to the committee my intention to modify the Caraway resolution. I said I had received a resolution along the lines of my recent suggestions in a senate speech.

Support in Principle.

"I said it would be agreeable to me to have the committee signify its support of such a resolution in principle, without any member committing himself to the exact form at that time."

"The committee unanimously and favorably accepted my suggestion, and I was instructed to advise the senate. We all agreed that the action of the committee should be confidential."

"But in view of the statement which came from the White House at midnight it appeared obvious that information of the proposed action was conveyed to the White House."

Says Senate Will Act.

Senator Caraway (Dem., Ark.), author of the original resolution for cancellation of the leases, said today that the President's action would make no difference with the action in the Senate tomorrow.

"The President is away behind in this affair," Senator Caraway said.

"I read the statement of the President and am not satisfied that he did not intend to sustain him. His action at the Democratic was a little cheap politics. They have not shown that any Democrat accepted a bribe or disposed of government property, or anything like that."

"No legal investigation of this matter should be confined over to the attorney general, even though special aids are employed. That would be ridiculous under the circumstances. Mr. Daugherty has been hand in glove with these people for years."

"The remarkable thing about the President's statement is that it showed a lack of confidence by the President in his attorney general. Can Mr. Daugherty stay in the cabinet after that announcement? Could any self-respecting man swallow that? That is what I want to know. Has the attorney general lost all self-respect?"

Loyalty Backs President.

Senator Lenroot (Rep., Wis.), a member of the public lands committee, who has been active in the investigation, and his close friend sympathetic with the President's course.

"I heartily approve the statement of the President and the action he proposed to take," said Senator Lenroot.

Senator Capper (Rep., Kan.) also endorsed the President's pronouncement and said that the investigation should "go above and beyond" party expediency, and demanded that no one found guilty should escape.

Senator Capper said he would support the Senate resolution for cancellation of the leases.

Action Dismisses Daugherty.

opinion of experienced observers here, not only inferentially calls upon Attorney General Daugherty to resign and takes the oil leasing mess out of the sphere of politics but goes farther and gives promise of being more effective than the Walsh resolution to be proposed in the Senate tomorrow.

The President directs that the matter be thrown at once into the Senate where it would eventually have to go to determine the right of cancellation and his best stroke, in the opinion of impartial observers, is to place the controversy above the plane of politics and partisan feeling.

Whether this is true or not, the fact that Secretary Fall, after taking office, immediately set about the task of getting control of the naval oil reserves from the navy department over a dragon. It provides a way for recovery of the oil leases for punishment of persons or official guilty of offenses, and directs a more powerful oversight upon the lease of the Teapot Dome.

The first public paper of the lease appears in the morning dispatches of April 14, 1922. Two days later Senator Keneddy [Dem., Wyo.] called the Senate's attention to what had been reported, criticized the wisdom of the lease and offered a resolution calling upon the protest of all experienced naval officers. In April, 1922, Fall executed the lease of the Teapot Dome.

The Sinclair interests, to whom the lease was given, are reported to have been issued to the president of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey.

Former Secretary Fall, according to his friends, may never appear before the Senate investigating committee, at least not in the immediate future. To date he was reported to be in a state of bitter exhaustion and ill health, too ill to leave his bed. His physician reported that he had a slight improvement in the bronchial congestion, but that he was too weak even to talk. It was stated that there was grave doubt that he would be able to appear before the Senate Committee Tuesday.

In some quarters recently there has been a disposition to call an impeachment trial against the President, because of the manner in which he handled the naval oil lease, and the Sinclair and Doheny leases.

So far as records show this was not the case, and some of the former President's most intimate friends insist that Mr. Harding never lost confidence in Fall and was, in fact, most sympathetic for him under the fire of criticism regarding his naval oil policy.

Harding Was Regretful.

The official record certainly does not support the theory that Fall was forced out of the cabinet and the President publicly expressed his regret at Mr. Fall's retirement. When in April, 1922, the Senate demands of the secretary of the interior concerning the record of the oil lease transactions, Secretary Fall prepared a lengthy reply which was transmitted June 7, 1922, to the Senate by a letter from President Harding, after outlining the scope of Secretary Fall's report, said:

"I am sure I am correct in concluding that the majority of the members of the Senate are in full accord with Mr. Fall in making to me this report."

One of the objects of the Senate resolution was to find out why the Navy Department consented to turn over control of these lands to the Interior Department and in the execution of that part of its task the committee has made good. Secretary Denby appears in a most unfavorable light.

There has never been any taint of wrongdoing on the part of Mr. Denby, but his course at the time of the controversy in the face of unanimous opposition of high naval authorities against the transfer and his showing of indifference of what took place during the investigation, have served to shake public confidence in him.

The public lands committee had resolved to it the other day a portion of Secretary Denby's testimony in order to bring out, in the light of recent disclosures, how little Mr. Denby appeared to know about the leases which he signed, together with Fall.

How Denby Testified.

In connection with the issue to Doheny's oil company, which is developing reserves No. 1, Secretary Denby's testimony was, in part, as follows:

SENATOR WALSH—Mr. Secretary, do you recall how many leases or contracts were made with the Pan-American Petroleum company?

SECRETARY DENBY—No, sir; I do not.

SENATOR WALSH—Do you remember what was the first one, or what the first one was about?

SECRETARY DENBY—No, I could not tell you exactly now.

SENATOR WALSH—Do you recall what the second one was about?

SECRETARY DENBY—No.

SENATOR WALSH—Or the third one, there was a third one?

SECRETARY DENBY—No, sir; I do not.

SENATOR WALSH, I can get all that information to you very quickly from the records of the Navy Department.

In some quarters here it is insisted that the oil leases and transfer of naval reserve control was hatched before the Republican convention in Chicago in 1920, that Mr. Fall, then senator from New Mexico, was foisted upon President Harding as secretary of the interior in order to cover up the plot, and that he proceeded to carry out the program originating with the oil interests.

In fact, it has been asserted that plans had been made for this no matter which party won the election in November, 1920.

Fall Didn't Lose Time.

Whether this is true or not, the fact that Secretary Fall, after taking office, immediately set about the task of getting control of the naval oil reserves from the Navy Department over a dragon. It provides a way for recovery of the oil leases for punishment of persons or official guilty of offenses, and directs a more powerful oversight upon the lease of the Teapot Dome.

The Sinclair interests, to whom the lease was given, are reported to have been issued to the president of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey.

M'ADOO SENDS ENVY TO WOO GOTHAM ALLIES

Diplomacy Before Sword Is His Watchword.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

New York, Jan. 27.—(Special)—Claiming a majority of the delegates to the Democratic national convention already in sight for his candidate, former Judge David L. Rockwell has opened McAdoo's headquarters here, prepared for five months of maneuvering, manipulation and grandstanding necessary to selection of a presidential nominee.

When Mr. Rockwell was asked to specify what states make up his majority of delegates for McAdoo, he assumed an air of mystery as of a general guarding his strategy. It was disclosed, however, that the New York or New Jersey delegations are on Mr. Rockwell's list and that whatever fighting for delegates that McAdoo forces intend to do is not to be done in these two states.

Diplomacy, Order of the Day.

McAdoo commends New York to Gov. Al Smith and New Jersey to Gov. Miller in the preliminary balloting at least. Not war but diplomacy will prevail, warned by McAdoo from these headquarters, his views to leading into the fold through fair words and kind treatment New York and New Jersey delegates who are not disposed to go into the last ditch with the Murphy-Brennan-Taggart opposition.

A New York will be sold for Gov. Smith and New Jersey for David Hunter Miller, whom Mr. Rockwell has placed in charge of the McAdoo headquarters. Al Smith has made a splendid governor and we all admire and love him. He is entitled to the compliment the New York and perhaps some other delegations may give him. I have no doubt the friends of Mr. McAdoo in the New York delegation will join in this complimentary vote.

Against Unit Rule.

Of course, Gov. Smith cannot be nominated, while there is no doubt now that Mr. McAdoo will be nominated. After the complimentary voting it will be found that there are plenty of McAdoo votes in the New York delegation.

Mr. Miller, however, declared against the unit rule, though through its operation McAdoo would get the entire delegation, if its majority were composed of McAdoo men. Tammany, on the other hand, wants the delegation placed under unit rule to give Smith the entire ninety votes and is trying to push this bill to that effect through the New York legislature.

"I am opposed to the unit rule because it violates the principles of democracy," said Mr. Miller. "When a delegate is elected his instructions can come from only from those who elected him—his people, the state of the district delegate, and the state convention, in the case of delegates at large. The delegation has no right to instruct itself and to compel votes of delegates elected to support one candidate to be cast for another candidate."

Two-thirds Majority a Faux.

Now is Mr. Miller in favor of abolition of the rule requiring a two-thirds majority to nominate and the adoption of a ruling requiring only the simple majority, as Mr. Rockwell already claims for McAdoo.

"It is embarrassing to state a position on the two-thirds rule," said Mr. Miller. "If I say I am in favor of its retention, I am represented as fearing that Gov. Smith would win were only a simple majority required. If I say I am in favor of its abolition I am represented as fearing that McAdoo never will get two-thirds."

"The fact is that the two-thirds rule no longer serves a useful purpose. But it is difficult to abolish it or even to advocate its abolition with partisanship entering into consideration. The only practicable course to abolish the rule, it seems to me, is to offer a resolution in the 1924 convention after the Al Smith is the author of the wet blanket and wants a wet plash in the platform, while McAdoo is a dry and will approve a wet plash.

"I don't believe this question will come in the convention," said Mr. Rockwell. "With the eighteenth amendment a part of the constitution, the question is now purely one of law enforcement. What candidate would dare say he is against law and order?"

"The only complaint, however, made by both wet and dry, is that there may be something in the platform of both parties on law enforcement, but there will not be a word about prohibition in either platform."

the people we have to deal with in understood.

Way Made Easy.

It is very important to contemplate the differences of our positions with Tibet now and even a short while ago. Our present most friendly—in fact, almost startlingly friendly—relationship with the government of his holiness the Dalai Lama, has been brought about chiefly by the action of our own political officers and also, and no doubt partially, by the actions of business men and from the constant pressure of Chinese invasion from the east frontier. For it is after all only some eight or ten years since the Chinese were ejected from Tibet and Tibet itself became an independent country. No man had had greater influence on this happy result than Mr. Charles Bell, with his unique knowledge and experience.

Delayed by Monsoon.

This was foreseen by us to start in the monsoon season in 1922, but it is to be hoped that 1924 will be favorable for our object as 1922 promised to be.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—The arrangements for the third expedition to attempt the assault of Mount Everest are now practically complete.

For those who have had any previous experience in the exploration of the Himalaya, or in attempting the ascent of Mount Everest, a more glorious country which has not yet been depicted; and even more, the great glories of Chouye and its consort Gyachung Kang, which lie within our range of exploration. Every effort must be made to record their splendors.

It is disappointing, in a way, that the great Mount Everest itself from the Rongbuk valley is probably its least magnificant aspect. Nor is it, compared to many other views of the mountains, vastly impressive, even although set off by the frank formlessness, not to say true ugliness, of the Rongbuk valley itself.

It is, therefore, greatly to be desired that views of Everest from western Rongbuk, or from the south, should not be given to the world, as they must be, without some more favorable conditions than was our lot the year before and should have had more time in which to endeavor to realize our ambition to reach the summit. For there is no doubt at all thin question of the monsoon is the most important factor in our success.

The problem is, in my way, a strange one, differing entirely from ordinary mountain exploration. One of the tasks which have to be faced is to bring one's party to the very foot of the mountain, to the base of operations, in first class condition. It is almost like dealing with the crew of a university boat.

Question of Oxygen.

As a matter of fact, Tibet is an old country. Most of the main routes have been traveled and traversed continually over a long period of time. But up to 1921 (to us who are especially interested in the great problem—that great year) the routes which led from Shigatze, and to the holy monastery of Rongbuk, were over entirely untried ground.

The task of the 1924 expedition is, therefore, immensely lightened. Our way is made straight. Our requirements are known, and therefore easily provided for. The character of necessary in order to reach the summit. This still has to be proved. But whether it is the case or not, we have learned from the attempts made in 1922 that a very fair measure of acclimatization can be attained up to a much greater height than had been previously expected.

It is extremely likely that it will be found possible to climb the happy mean by available supplies of oxygen, thus delaying the use of oxygen to a much later portion of the attack, at all events, than had hitherto been considered necessary.

A Gorgeous Country.

There lies to the west of our base camp on the Rongbuk valley glacier, and comprising the northernmost branch of the Yarlung Tsangpo, a most glorious country which has not yet been depicted;

and even more, the great glories of Chouye and its consort Gyachung Kang, which lie within our range of exploration.

Every word that we have to say about the expedition is to be done in the name of the chief expedition, Mr. Charles Bell.

Mr. Beecher's close friend, Theodore Tilton, brilliant lecturer, named Beecher publicly as having had relations with his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Tilton, who had gone to the minister for religious advice and spiritual consolation.

Tilton, like Albert R. Leland, told of his wife's confession to him on a number of occasions. He produced in his wife's handwriting a letter in substance she had told him.

In the confession, as in Mrs. Leland's, Mrs. Tilton said her relations with the pastor "never proceeded beyond a friendly acquaintance, but in substance she had told him."

There followed after Tilton's charges, which attained great publicity, in 1874, the appearance of Dr. Case, the pastor of Dr. Kuhl's church, in the strange case of Mrs. Leland.

Famous Tilton-Beecher Scandal Has Striking Parallel in Leland-Case Row

The Case-Leland trial, involving a well known Baptist minister in Oak Park and two of his parishioners, recalls the famous case of the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, famous writer, orator and churchman.

The days of '74 and '75 were as tumultuous to Mr. Beecher, pastor of the historic Plymouth church of Brooklyn, as are these days to Dr. Case.

Also Given to Adversity.

Mr. Beecher's close friend, Theodore Tilton, brilliant lecturer, named Beecher publicly as having had relations with his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Tilton, who had gone to the minister for religious advice and spiritual consolation.

Tilton, like Albert R. Leland, told of his wife's confession to him on a number of occasions. He produced in his wife's handwriting a letter in substance she had told him.

Then followed, as now, a public trial in a court of law. To quote a writer quoted over the daily details of the great scandal.

There was Mr. Beecher's wife, described as "ugly and unresponsive," who has testified that Dr. Case told Mrs. Leland her wife was not of an affectionate nature.

But there was a great difference in the two affairs. For Mrs. Tilton repudiated her confession. At the same time Dr. Beecher in every way to clear both their names while Mrs. Leland, did not realize I could do a real wrong, and somehow he seems in a vague way to make me feel that I had done no wrong."

Mrs. Tilton said she "felt justified before God in her relations with Mr. Beecher," her husband related. Mrs. Leland has every faith that she has received divine forgiveness, she has declared.

Believed Solved Forgiven.

Both Mrs. Tilton and Mrs. Leland, after writing to their husbands, indicated they felt forgiven by God.

The church committee met, but held no services. Mr. Beecher, as president, was absent.

Mr. Beecher received the congratulations of thousands, their prayers and earnest support.

So has Dr. Case been exonerated by the church committee and has received the support of his parish, his brother clergymen, and their congregations.

Tilton finally brought suit for damages against Mr. Beecher and the trial began Jan. 6, 1875, lasting until July 1. They jury stood 9 to 5 in favor of Beecher's exoneration.

After the end of the famous Beecher trial there was more talk of the scandal. Finally a great ecclesiastical council was held, which again exonerated Mr. Beecher.

Died Highly Honored Man.

Mr. Beecher never relinquished his pulpit, preaching every Sunday, and presiding at weekly prayer meetings. After the final exoneration Mr. Beecher took up his work in earnest and when he died he was honored by the millions who knew him.

His family, including his wife, Harriet Beecher Stowe, received condolences from all over the world. Beecher was a great orator. He had made wide fame, a decade before his trouble, by speaking in England in defense of the position of the north in the American civil war.

Tilton-Leland Parallel.

There was Mr. Beecher's wife, described as "ugly and unresponsive," who has testified that Dr. Case told Mrs. Leland her wife was not of an affectionate nature.

But there was a great difference in the two affairs. For Mrs. Tilton repudiated her confession. At the same time Dr. Beecher in every way to clear both their names while Mrs. Leland, G. Baker of the University of Chicago. Prof. Baker took it that "The Word of God Is Great and Powerful and Sharper Than Two Edged Sword." In his sermon he did not once refer to Dr. Case or his son.

In his place, however, came a suggestion of the Leland-Case affair when he prayed: "O God, we beseech Thee to abolish the shadows which have fallen over our lives."

Dr. Case sat in a pew down near the front of the church, on the right of the aisle. With his son, Carl Case, who is highly dressed, one of his sons, a neascetic looking man, a bit gaunt, low cheecked. He walked gravely, led by one of the ushers, down through the crowded aisle and looked gravely up into the faces of the choir above the pulpit and facing him.

Mr. Leland remained at the home of his sister in Forest Park during the day. Mrs. Leland was at the home of her father, Dr. Beach Loomis, 323 Western avenue, Oak Park, where Attorney Moss instructed her to rest and to see neither friends nor newspaper men. Neither of the Lelands attended the services at the First Baptist church.

SENATOR'S WIFE TO TELL WOMEN CAMPAIGN DATA

McCormick Suddenly Is Called to Washington.

BY FRANK BUTZOW.
Mrs. Medill McCormick will "pinch bit" for her husband at today's meeting of the Republican women at Orchestra hall. She will read the address which he will be unable to make because of enforced absence.

An urgent summons from Washington yesterday compelled Senator Mc-Cormick to cancel his plans to attend the meeting. He caught a noon train back to the capital. A message from Senator Curtis [Rep., Kan.], Republican whip of the senate, said it was exceptionally important that Senator McCormick be in Washington tonight.

The Orchestra hall meeting at 2:30 this afternoon was arranged by the McCormick women's campaign committee in behalf of his candidacy for re-election. Despite his hurried return, he wrote his message to the women and left it with his wife to read.

Today's meeting is the first big downtown gathering of women to be held in the present campaign. Attorney General Edward J. Brundage and Mrs. Joseph T. Brown, Illinois woman representative of the McCormick campaign committee's auxiliary, will speak. Miss Helen Bennett, manager of the McCormick women's campaign committee, will preside.

Democrats Framing Slate.

Democratic slate makers expect to put the final touches on the county ticket today. George E. Brennan, who has been ill for several days, expects to be on hand at headquarters again.
Today's activities will be devoted largely to fixing up the country towns' representatives and arranging slate.

Declaring that Chicago was "discredited against" at the Democratic state advisory convention at Springfield field, Jan. 18, Robert M. McKinlay, former member of the legislature, yesterday announced himself as a candidate for secretary of state against Andrew Olson of Moline, who is on the regular slate.

State Senator Thurlow G. Easson, anti-Smoke candidate for the governorship nomination at the coming primaries, has a busy week outlined in central Illinois. In addition to five and six meetings daily in smaller towns he has four big night meetings scheduled at Canton, Galesburg, Springfield and Peoria.

Durso Would Run Again.

Friends of State Representative
Michael R. Durso gave him a testimonial banquet last night. About 350 men present at the New York Hotel were present. The new Mayor, Judge John J. Lupe was toastmaster.
Durso was applauded when he announced himself a candidate for re-nomination on the Republican ticket in the Twenty-ninth senatorial district.

BARBOUR HURLS LIE AT SMALL
STUMP SPEAKERS

State Senator James J. Barbour [Rep., Rogers Park], hurled the lie at some of Gov. Len Small's campaign organizers. His utterances were in reply to charges that he is on Attorney General Brundage's pay roll and that Brundage listed himself for special pay as "assistant to himself."

The latter charges Senator Barbour branded as "a cowardly lie." He declared also that his associate colleague, ever received from the attorney general or by his "physical and political courage" in prosecuting the "Herrin

ESSINGTON'S PLEDGES.

The platform of Senator Essington announced yesterday in his campaign for the Republican nomination for governor is such a statement as a self-respecting candidate would make to a sensible electorate. It assumes that the electorate has common sense and regard for itself, its own needs and welfare. It is not a can of fish bait for suckers.

Essington speaks of what he hopes and plans to do in office in respect to the things which are included within the administration of state, not of the fantastic things with which the governor of Illinois has nothing to do and upon which he has no influence.

He discusses taxes, the budget, interest on public funds, roads, appointments, state institutions, agriculture, industrial workers, schools, waterways, conservation, etc., and makes his pledge with respect to each.

He says he will make the state administration a clean administration and will remove from it the high cost of personal corrupt favors and political corrupt favors. These have been the causes of and the reasons for the maladministration which is reflected in every relation of the state to the citizen. Illinois is a stable which needs a cleaning and Essington promises the cleaning.

Citizens who are disgusted with rascality will be encouraged that Essington is sound in his plans and sincere in his promises. His platform announcing what he will do is not the place for an extended review of Small's record, but the candidate gives a general picture of present conditions in a few paragraphs, and it is true and colored:

Taxes have been piled upon the people of the state to support office holders who do not give their time to the service of the state. Officials have been appointed not for public purposes, but for private, personal, political purposes. Roads have been built extravagantly in many places as political rewards and have been insufficiently repaired in many places as political punishments. Criminals have been pardoned for personal, political reasons and the lives and possessions of citizens are today exposed to the assaults of a politically privileged criminal class. Doctors not trained to be doctors have been licensed wrongfully to practice the profession of healing and for political and corrupt financial considerations have been let loose upon the people to bring them hurt instead of health.

Important functions of state government have been diverted from the public use and have been devoted to purposes of private ambition and of private gain. The result has been that the cost of government has been not only the cost of government but also the cost of maintaining the rapidly mounting private fortunes of incompetent and corrupt office holders.

This is all true and the proof is in the record. Essington offers a cleanup and a correction of this corruption. He pledges himself to the methods required by good government.

STOP THESE PROVOCATIONS.

Secretary Hughes and Ambassador Geddes have signed the rum treaty, to become effective after ratification. It gives the United States permission to search rum runners anywhere within an hour's steaming distance off the American coast, and in exchange for this concession America permits British vessels to bring sealed liquor in the ship stores into American ports.

The enforcement of American law is given greater opportunity and an act of American churlishness is eliminated. We do not know how much more successful the pursuit of the rummer will be or how much of New York's supply will be cut off, but the treaty removes two additional aggravations.

We presume that the enforcement officers with this greater field of search will be sufficiently checked by Washington authority so that they will not be sailing ships illegally. That dangerous proceeding, however, by drys who believe only in one law, could get us into trouble. Our interference with the wine rations and table beverages of foreign ships was topnotch fanaticism.

RAILROAD COMBINATIONS.

Senator Cummins of Iowa is a legislator whose proposals in regard to our railroad policy are worthy of careful consideration. When, therefore, he introduces a bill providing that after a period of seven years for voluntary action the railroads shall be compelled to make combinations in accordance with a government plan, it will be and ought to be received with respect. The subject, however, involves some very important questions. There is a natural tendency of government, confronted with the problem of rate adjustments, which the different conditions of weak roads and strong roads make especially difficult, to move toward enforced consolidations. There is a plausible view that large economies and greater efficiency may be brought about through combination and consolidation on a large scale.

But there are other considerations deserving of careful inquiry and deliberation. How large a system can be formed without loss of efficiency?

How large ought any enterprise to be? It is not an easy question to answer. When railroads are forced to combine according to a government plan, especially theoretical if not political, are economic laws affected to the injury of the roads and the consequent hurt of the public? Are healthy competition and initiative conserved or weakened? Finally, while it is conceded that the railroads are enterprises affected with a public trust, how far is it either just or wise to encroach upon private right in the name of a hypothetical public good?

We would not dignify any of these questions, but we believe that they should be carefully considered. Combination seems now a popular idea, and it may be perfectly sound and desirable, but it ought not to be taken for granted. The extension of political intervention and control in enterprise is not to be welcomed, and while in some degree it seems necessary or justifiable, the necessity or desirability should be clearly shown.

A TEST OF GOVERNMENT SANITY.

Analysis and comparison of the offer of the Associated Public Utility Power companies for a lease of Muscle Shoals with the proposals of Henry Ford, prepared by Representative Hull of Iowa and government experts, and printed in detail in THIS WEEKLY TRIBUNE, ought to close the subject in so far as the Ford offer is concerned.

In brief, the power companies ask a fifty year lease, in compliance with the federal water power law, while Ford demands a 100 year lease in violation of that law. The power companies offer $6,500,000 in the city year period for what Ford would pay $5,000,000. The power companies offer to pay interest, maintenance costs, and depreciation on Tennessee river headwater improvements, for which Ford offers nothing. The power companies offer power at cost, but conspicuously avoid specifying the cost. One proposal adds as a附件 of an overheard conversation: "I'd rather call the doctor twice too often than once once not." LUMAT.

ON THE LEFT IT IS DONE FRATELLI.

R. L. — At 15 you read Macbeth's "I HAD a vision of Banquo" and the spectre of him in your room.

Dad: Notice the paragraph where young Mr. Julian is tasting some cider and Mr. Morgan tells him what a great hand at grafting apples his grandfather was? Well, he says:

"and a famous graftier he was, to be sure, you will never see no swelling in the trees that he grafted."

Sets me to thinking that we need a guy like that for our next governor. MACARTHUR.

It would not be much more trouble than writing to nearly two years ago to the service voters that there was only one in the state of Illinois that could be had hard roads. — W. H. Williams.

A WORD TO THAT EXPERT HOUSEHUSBAND.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—You certainly are a wonderful man, but I would rather hear one else blow your horn. It really too bad that you are not more like me and my husband. We have been married for many years now and our ankles still sprain our ankles. Mrs. Brothman indeed fortunate in having you to help her. You didn't state how many children she had to dress and care for all day, as most of us housewives are blessed with a few of them at least, therefore find little time for gossip. — Mrs. A. J. Beck.

NOT "SHEEP CLOTHING."

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Ralph E. Livermore, appearing in Jan. 22 issues. Again you are wrong. You again base your attack on an "assumption" in place of "fact."

If your statement refers to the trustee mentioned in one of the advertisements, you certainly have no right to assume that because he is named a trustee he is a capitalist. The essential of a trustee is honesty—not wealth. The trustee mentioned is not a member of the league and only contemplated acting as trustee because his regular vocation that calls for him to act as trustee for others, just as trust does in all banks do.

Honesty is power. It is not "sheep's clothing." We publicly declare our desire to step out on the disabled veterans' financial path. Our honor, your honor, the honor of every ex-service man is at stake. If greed is to take the place of honor, God help the poor disabled veteran who is in the minority.

C. H. A. MARSHALL,
Ex-Service Men's Anti-Southern League.

PUBLIC SERVICE.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—In my opinion, which based on forty-five years of actual service in the Chicago postoffice, the deterioration of the service is attributable to successive changes in the nature of emotions. Seniority and efficiency, especially of the distributor, who is doing the only expert work that is performed in the postal service, does not insure him promotion to a supervisory position. From the postmaster to and including most of the superintendents and assistants, none is equipped with any knowledge of the distribution of mail. There are many good distributors who do not receive $2,000 per year, the salary signified by the P. O. department for social clerks only; also that 75 per cent of these $2,000 positions must be given to the distributors. Better management (less gang rule) is what the Chicago post office needs. — EDWARD C. HOWE.

CLUB WOMEN.

Dubuque, Ia., Jan. 21.—Three cheers for a tigress for the Chicago clubwomen who refused to condone the banning of Abel Normand's pictures without the artist's being given a chance to tell her story. It is gratifying to know that the mothers of fatigued metropolitan women are at least a step ahead of the "holier than thou" leadership of Waynesburg, Pa., and painted Post, Wyo.

PIERCE-ARROW

ANNOUNCES

Another Factor of Safety— PIERCE-ARROW

FOUR-WHEEL SAFETY BRAKES

For twenty-three years it has been the purpose of Pierce-Arrow engineers to build not only comfort, speed and dependability into Pierce-Arrow cars, but also—safety.

Every advance, every development, has been influenced and measured, first, by the principle of safety.

Safety, as well as flexibility, was the goal in creating the Dual-Valve Engine. Safety, as well as comfort, is the object of the car's balance and low center of gravity. Safety, as well as ease, was the motive in devising a steering mechanism that can be guided by the frailest of women.

Safety, as well as durability, is the reason for the staunchness of the body. Safety, as well as beauty, impelled the use of narrow, clear-vision pillars in Pierce-Arrow closed cars. And there is safety as well as distinction in the fender headlights, whose broad, powerful beams may be dimmed without removing the hands from the wheel or eyes from the road.

Pierce-Arrow Four-Wheel Safety Brakes are offered as optional equipment at an additional charge

What Pierce-Arrow Four-Wheel Safety Brakes Will Do—and Why They Do It

On a wet, slippery pavement . . . a gentle pressure on the brake pedal, and the car comes to a swift, positive stop, squarely in its tracks. There is no sideslip, no slipping; the car seems to crouch closer to the ground—to hug the road tightly; the tires seem geared to the surface.

Descending a steep, winding road . . . a sharp turn ahead . . . down goes the brake pedal—and the car slows to a snail's pace as you wheel surefootedly around the curve with all four brakes equally applied.

What is the secret of the wonderful ability of Pierce-Arrow Four-Wheel Safety Brakes?

Just this: Pierce-Arrow Four-Wheel Safety Brakes act on all four wheels equally and positively at all times on the straightaway or in turning.

The car steers as easily as ever under any and all conditions.

The brake shoes expand internally against drums, air-cooled by fins. They are completely enclosed and protected from dirt and water. They will stop the car in nearly half the usual distance—if desired.

There is no extra effort required to depress the brake pedal.

The control is direct, simple and unfailing.

There are but few parts.

The operating shaft and cam is an integral part of the front axle; there are no toggles, no universals.

It spreads or expands the front brake shoes equally, no matter in what position the wheels are turned.

The action of the brake pedal on both front and rear operating rods is positively equalized by Pierce-Arrow equalizers.

Pierce-Arrow Four-Wheel Safety Brakes require less adjustment than ordinary brakes. The wear on each brake is less; brake linings yield from two to three times the mileage.

There is added economy, too, in increased tire mileage, for tire wear occasioned by braking is reduced nearly by half.

Pierce-Arrow Four-Wheel Safety Brakes are built into the car—not attached onto it.

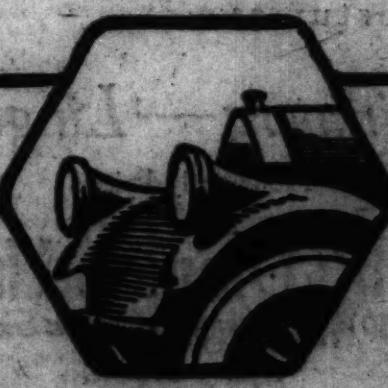

We invite you to inspect the clean-cut simplicity of design at the showrooms of our distributors.

"Pride of its makers makes you proud to possess it."

See the Pierce-Arrow, equipped with Four-Wheel Brakes, at Auto Show, January 26-February 2

SENATOR REED THROWS HAT IN DEMOCRAT RING

SURTAX HOVERS

IN COMMITTEE

Chances Dim for Mellon's Rate.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 27.—[United News]—United States Senator James A. Reed [Dem.-Mo.] today formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for President.

Indication that Senator Reed will seek only that the Missouri delegation to the national convention in New York June 24 be instructed for him to remain in the event of his attack for the floor of the convention was seen in the announcement of his candidacy.

Reed Platform High Spots.

Reed desires for reduction of the smaller income taxes, rigid economy in all government affairs, keeping government agencies out of business operation as far as possible, adjusted compensation for veterans, agricultural relief through tariff reduction and freight rate cuts, and vigorous prosecution of "misfeasors" in the Teapot Dome scandal.

High spots of the senator's statement are:

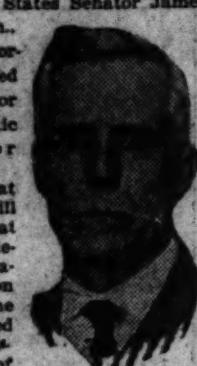

"The Democratic party favors making the principal tax reduction in smaller incomes."

"One method of reducing taxation which ought to be employed immediately is the practice of rigid economy in all governmental affairs."

Debt for Bonus.

"Both political parties solemnly promised our soldiers adjusted compensation. The Democratic party intends to keep its promise."

"The farmers are suffering from conditions of unprecedented hardship. It is the duty of the government to employ for their relief all reasonable protective measures."

The unfortunate accident at one of our Mines, known as the McClintock, will not in any way affect our service, as the physical property was in no way impaired. This Mine was recognized as one of the safest in the State and every known device and protection was installed for the safety of the Miners. It was one of those uncontrollable calamities where the loss of life is unavoidable and greatly to be regretted.

IF ELTERS FAIL, THEN KIDS MAY RELEASE GRIFFIS

The shooting was done by Police

It went comes to worst—if there is a dearth of dollars—children's lives will pull Lieut. Corlies H. Griffis, American patriot, out of his German prison.

This, at least, is the assurance the mials bring from Mrs. Arthur J. Seales of Hammond, Ind. She comments on the effort to raise $5,000 to be used to liberate the army officer who failed to succeed in kidnap Cleveland Bergold, most notorious slasher of his time.

"I don't know just how near the goal you will be by the time this letter is received," writes Mrs. Seales, "but I do know that if we grow up fast, the fund can be carried over the top, and we can appeal to school children."

"I rather believe Lieut. Griffis would be delighted to know kids' copper are helping to bring him back. Let's interest the little ones. They are the real patriots."

For the information of Mrs. Seales and others it should be said the Griffis does not aggregate $5,000. It is $4,000 a day night.

Contributions received while there is every reason to believe the remaining $582.05 will come in time, perhaps it would be just as well to encourage children to do their bit. All in favor of the motion will please signify by starting a "penny for Griffis" movement.

Need Green for Majority.

Even if all other Republicans of the committee, except Representative [Rep., Wis.], the single La Follette radical, would favor the 25 per cent maximum rate, a majority of the full committee would be lacking unless Representative Longworth [Ohio], Republican leader of the house, has openly advocated a compromise with the Democrats, spokesmen for the minority party have rejected overtures and the Republicans are making plans for a straight out partisan fight.

Plan on Democratic Aid.

The most favored plan among the Republicans seems to be to report out a bill which will command the support of the entire party.

The group lined up solidly for the 50 per cent maximum of the present law during consideration of the 1921 revenue act, but now is showing a willingness to accept a reduction to somewhere between 35 and 40 per cent.

If this group can be swayed into line it will mean the La Follette radicals, who have been supporting the 25 per cent, twenty votes, will be left only Republicans not supporting the committee.

Enough Democratic votes might be picked off to offset the defection of the single Republicans.

For the information of Mrs. Seales and others it should be said the Griffis does not aggregate $5,000. It is $4,000 a day night.

REVELERS HELD; COP'S STORY OF KILLING TAKEN

Eight men were in cells last night while the police were searching for two girls and investigating the conflicting stories of a killing that was the climax to a gay party at the Duflin apartments, 447 East 47th street early yesterday morning.

The shooting was done by Police man Victor J. Miller, former tenant, who was calling on his wife at the apartment of Miss Josephine Marentie in that building. William J. Grant was the man who was killed.

The policeman, whose version was accepted by his superior, said he was going up the stairs, had a few words with the merrymakers, and Grant tried to hit him with a chair.

Mrs. Margaret Shepard, manager of the building, said she had heard nothing against her since they had lived there, and Miller sought a quarrel with Grant and his companions.

peaked helmets over the ears, until they looked like medieval hooded monks.

Coffin on High Platform

Then the body was taken to Red square, surrounded by a military guard of six footers, followed by the widow, Lenin's two sisters, his brothers, and officials. The bitter cold streets were almost deserted except for the guards and the delegations which had been chosen to march. The coffin was placed on a platform ten feet high in front of the temporary mausoleum.

At the head of the central committee chosen for the mighty carrying power of his voice, read the funeral oration, his words echoing from the walls of the Kremlin. Then followed a seemingly endless procession of workmen's and workwomen's delegations. The oration was a proclamation from the laboring masses of sovietism to "the laboring masses of humanity and was couched in biblical terms, in which Nicolai Lenin was pictured as having led the people through all dangers and "whose work promises a kingdom of labor for humanity enslaved."

"Genius of Revolution Gone."

"We are burying Lenin today," spoke the orator. "The international genius of the workers' revolution has gone from him, but he left the world all dangers by his memory; and from every corner of the globe waves of grief are coming in. Enemies against whom we are carrying on our struggle are unwillingly dropping their banners, every one understanding that the bright star of humanity has passed away."

Crowds of factory workmen waited patiently for hours, miles long from the early morning hours, shivering in the streets adjacent to Red square. The air was clouded with the smoke from great bonfires on the street corners. Only the notes of funeral marches broke the silence, until the booming of guns and a sudden symphony from factory whistles heralded the lowering of Lenin's body. The silent human masses bared their heads for a few seconds and banners were dipped. Vast numbers still were marching long after darkness.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon the streets were clouded and then the sun burst over the walls of the Kremlin. To the west of the window Nikolai Lenin's body was lowered into the tomb. The guns which were expected to sound a salute of one hundred, for some reason unknown, only fired three shots. Despite the cold, thousands waited with bared heads and sang cold hymns.

All trains were halted and there was five minute silence throughout Russia.

At midnight Saturday it was estimated that 750,000 persons had marched past the body of the Bolshevik leader as it lay in state in the House of Unions. Towards that hour a general alarm of fire was sounded from a box near the funeral hall, and all the firemen responded. The firemen left the apparatus in the streets and marched into the building to view the body.

Examine Lenin's Brain.

Today the funeral committee prohibited children from attending the public burial of the extreme temperament and a special armistice order permitted the soldiers to wear mixed garb to protect them.

Before preserving them for posterity, the physical remains of Lenin, particularly his brain, will be submitted to the minutest examination by scientists.

The brain has already been photographed, and the convolutions indicate extraordinary intelligence, and according to Prof. Weisbrod of the Lenin institute, a microscope examination will afford a wonderful opportunity for science to study the brain structure of one of the greatest mentalities.

GIRL SAYS SHE WAS KIDNAPED IN WILL DISPUTE

Ohio Ex-Congressman Accused in Plot.

New York, Jan. 27.—(Special)—Charging that she had been drugged and kidnapped in an alleged plot to prevent her sharing in an estate of more than $1,000,000, Miss Dixie Leonard of Aligier, La., through her attorney Dr. Lloyd Field Malone, today announced the filing of a million dollar suit against former Representative Roger J. Bulkeley, his wife, Henry Gordon Bulkeley, and Lydia Leonard Bulkeley, wife of Henry Gordon Bulkeley and sister of the plaintiff.

Miss Leonard's complaint also set up man and Dr. George A. Blakeslee of New York, who were charged with administering the alleged drug and with superintending the abduction.

Martin W. Littleton, counsel for the Bulkleys, said tonight that the suit was based on the fact that Mrs. Leonard "claims to have been induced to exercise undue influence on an old lady, who died since 'died.' The attorney for Dr. Blakeslee, Lloyd F. Stryker, declared that the trial would result in exoneration for the Bulkleys and the physicians.

The complaint charges that about 1903, while Miss Leonard was visiting Henry Gordon Bulkeley and his wife, Mrs. Bulkeley, and Roberta Johns, mother of Henry Bulkeley, who died Nov. 17, 1920, and it is her estate in which Miss Leonard alleges she should have shared more heavily than she did.

At this time Mrs. Bulkeley first became interested in Miss Leonard. In 1906, the complaint continues, Mrs.

Bulkeley requested Miss Leonard to leave her mother and to establish a permanent residence with him. She promised at that time that, if he allowed her to do so, he would provide her with a home and ample provision for plaintiff.

Miss Leonard lived with Mr. Bulkeley from 1906 until November, 1919, during which time the pair traveled about Europe and the United States.

Mrs. Bulkeley was a chronic invalid.

It is further alleged that during this period Mrs. Bulkeley had frequently to be hospitalized and the pair were unable to live together.

It is further alleged that in 1911 Mrs. Bulkeley made a will whereby Miss Leonard was to receive $1,000 annually for the rest of her life. Mrs. Bulkeley is alleged to have frequently told her sons that she wanted to change this will because "it did not make ample provision for the plaintiff."

The complaint charges that Mrs. Bulkeley frequently tried to change this will but that she had been thwarted.

A good response is usually necessary to sell a car at your own price, unless that price is made very attractive. Yet Tribune Want Advertisers are selling cars quickly and getting the price they want for them.

On January 13 and 15 W. A. Mahrlein, 3510 Medill Ave., used this Want Ad:

Mr. Huster said later, "We had fifteen or twenty answers to our Tribune Want Ad and sold the car at our own price."

FRANCE ADVISED BY MAC DONALD TO REDUCE ARMY

Urged to Find Security Through League.

BY PAUL WILLIAMS.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 27.—[Tribune Radio.]

—France was advised to stop putting confidence in armament and to look to the league of nations for security in an openly frank interview which Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald today

granted to the correspondent of the Paris Quotidien.

In telling what the new prime minister explained why

there was general irritation England because of the European activities of its ally.

"The people reproach France first with the occupation of the Ruhr, which, in their opinion, is the principal cause of England's economic distress, and they also reproach France for not having enough consideration for the general interests of Europe and, in particular, for the interests of England," Mr. MacDonald said. "They again reproach France for giving material and financial encouragement to certain emigrant nations in the matter of armaments, which tend to lead inevitably to war."

"The people are beginning to ask whether it is not necessary for them in turn, to seek alliances elsewhere?"

Hints at Ruhr Combinations.

Evidently referring to the negotiations between the French and the Ruhr industrialists, Mr. MacDonald said he did not want at this moment to speak of the unrest among the Englishmen at the prospect of certain in-ustrial combinations of wide scope which the English people believed was the chief cause of the situation. Neither did he wish to dwell on the fear of the people in the matter of security, which was aroused by the extent of the French aerial armaments.

Says Protection in League.

When asked whether the Labor party shared this distrust, he replied:

"On the question of security, my personal opinion has been clearly stated, but I will say now that the greatest armament will never effectually guarantee the security of France

if we do not have confidence in our own strength. We would like France to have confidence in military powerfulness and realize that the greatest protection lies in the league of nations."

The occupation of the Ruhr has benefited no one and contains Germany's greatest calamity.

The Labor government will work for the protection of Germany, Germany, France and Russia first in the league, and sees no conditions which should be imposed on Russia except any contained in terms which she should sign with our nations."

GERMAN WEALTH CROWDS DUTCH FROM OWN TRADE

Makes Holland "Live Beyond Means"

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 27.—[Tribune Radio.]

The second committee of experts, which is trailing the flight of German capital, would do well to go to Holland,

according to the Amsterdam correspondent of the London Economist.

There they would find that Germans have been crowding the Dutch market for the past eighteen months that they are crowding the Dutch out of business, the correspondent declares.

"In consequence of the depreciation of Germany's currency there has been a regular invasion of this country by German undertakings," he says.

HUSBAND, SAFE IN CELL, SEES WIFE AND 'RIVAL' MIX

New Magazine Eager to Be Named.

Secure behind the bars of a detective bureau cell, Samuel B. Evans of 425 Broadway saw his wife and his so-called sweetie maul each other for five hectic minutes last night. Later he was so huffy and cross-tempered by the conduct of his so-called sweetie that he pulled the pavement of La Salle street.

Mrs. Evans, Acting Lieut. Charles Egan conceded, had won the decision.

Evans, an advertising man, was brought to the detective bureau Saturday night on a warrant charging nonsupport. After twenty-four hours of thinking it over, however, his wife began to feel sorry for him. The thought that he was languishing in that cell bothered her.

So-Called Sweetie Arrives.

She went down and obtained the lieutenant's permission to cheer him up. In the midst of the cheering scene, Mrs. Marie Croft of 4011 Sheridan road arrived. She had visited Evans six times before since his incarceration, and she didn't think it necessary to get the lieutenant's O. K.

Well, folks, the newswoman-entrepreneur is back again. Phillip Carroll, 280 pound layup keeper, is authority for that. He was dropped to floot himself during the business of separating the ladies, and the sergeant hasn't used to such usage.

With help of Lieut. Egan he managed to part the bickering, however, and Mrs. Croft got her led upstairs.

Father [Pa], shoo—Bam!

Mrs. Evans, still indignant, followed. "You ran away with my husband," she cried.

"You're a liar," countered Mrs. Croft.

Mrs. Evans took one full swing, and her opponent fell through the swinging door and down the stairs. That's when she encountered La Salle street.

The hostilities will be renewed today in the Court of Domestic Relations.

$25,000 AWAITS THREE PERSONS WITH IDEA EACH

New Magazine Eager to Be Named.

Now we're going to decide who gets that $25,000 in free cash money if somebody doesn't send in a name soon that'll make all the judges sit up and take notice.

A name for what? A name for the new national weekly magazine which the owners of The Good Housekeeping and New York Daily News will begin to publish early in the spring.

Three prizes of $25,000, $4,000, and $1,000 will be awarded to persons who suggest the best names and slogans for the new publication and tell why they think their suggestions are best.

A little thought, about five minutes' work—that's all. Several thousand suggestions have been received. To date not one of them has a mortgage on a prize.

Next Sunday's issue of this newspaper will contain a page advertising the rules of this great competition in detail.

Here's What Some Suggest.

Think of a name suitable for a publication which will interest everybody.

The magazine will have sixty-four full size magazine pages, printed on high quality paper, full interesting features for men, women, and children.

The best fiction, beautifully illustrated in colors by America's leading artists, will have large space.

Articles on home, health, beauty, love problems, and everything to interest every member of the family are to be published each week.

All will be a matter of national circulation to sell for 5 cents.

Here's What Some Suggests.

We're sure to get a original name, not one already used by another magazine.

One contestant sends this:

"Panakid—A Family Magazine."

A reason for choosing this name, the writer says: "Father [Pa], mother [Ma], and the children [kid], will all of them read the Panakid."

Funny at any rate. But we don't want a name that has to have a diagram to go with it.

Others found in the mail are:

"The Not—The Magazine Worth While."

"Spick—Spick and Span and Always New."

"The Drift—America's Universal Weekly."

"American Beauty—America's Best Magazine."

"True—It Beats the World."

"We and They—Newslets of the Week."

"The Spire—Tops Them All."

"The Weekly Seal—it's a Corker in Photos, Fashion, Fiction, and Fun."

"The Universe Beyond Which There Is Nothing."

"Liber—The United Weekly."

"The Advanced Magazine—The Men and Women—To Them, About Them, and for Them."

"The Mainspring—Full of Action and Wound Every Week."

"The Best—All That You Need to See or Read."

Those names should not be hard to beat. Read the rules and go to it!

PASTORS RESENT JUDICIAL WRATH OVER CRITICISM

Claim Court Laxity Shields Crime.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 27.—[United News]—The Rev. Baxter Landen, pastor of the Bethel Holiness Christian church, who was exiled before Circuit Judge Frank Landon last Monday because of his severe criticism of the courts here in his sermon the day before, preached in "standing room only" today. His topic was "My Summons to Court."

All over the city some scenes were being enacted. Preachers, church reporters, record attendance, the masses having boldly announced that they would denounce Judge Landen's action in his sermon. He used as his text, "Judge Landen—His Law and His Logic."

"This is not a matter concerning one judge," he said. "It affects the entire judiciary of the city, and all judges should repudiate the action of Judge Landen."

"Are we to live in a republic going to submit to an office usurping powers over a citizen which would not be tolerated in any monarchial country in Europe?" he asked.

with conditions existing now in Kansas City.

The courts were corrupt in those days, the minister had said. "The poor were robbed without recourse to law, and there was no justice." He then drew a parallel with the present times when, he charged, tricky attorneys packed juries and the members of the judiciary to be too lenient were responsible for the same wavy.

"I am going to criticize conditions here as long as they warrant it," he said. "Judge Landen cautioned me to return to my pulpit and comment only on matters I had facts about."

The Rev. Charles F. Aked, pastor of the First Congregational church, also strongly condemned the judge's action in his sermon. He used as his text, "Judge Landen—His Law and His Logic."

"This is not a matter concerning one judge," he said. "It affects the entire judiciary of the city, and all judges should repudiate the action of Judge Landen."

"Are we to live in a republic going to submit to an office usurping powers over a citizen which would not be tolerated in any monarchial country in Europe?" he asked.

Seventy-Ninth Annual Statement

TO THE POLICY-HOLDERS:

As a policy-holder you are chiefly interested in the quality of your Company and in the service it renders. By "quality" I mean the character of its business; the grade of its securities; the standards maintained by its Executive Officers.

I can not paint a complete picture, but in order to drive home some of the truth I give you below a picture of the work of one Committee during the year 1923.

During 1923 the Finance Committee made the following investments:

BONDS PURCHASED

Bonds Bought	Cost	Average Yield
U. S. Government Treasury Notes	$11,013,860.00	4.65%
Domestic Railroad Bonds	13,569,980.00	5.44%
Domestic Municipal Bonds	4,050,912.00	5.07%
Domestic Public Utility Bonds	9,216,596.00	5.49%
Canadian Municipal Bonds	494,700.00	5.24%
British and Other Foreign Bonds	5,470,312.00	5.14%
Total	$43,816,340.00	5.17%

BOND AND MORTGAGE LOANS MADE

Bonds Bought	Cost	Average Yield
City Loans	$39,262,432.00	5.81%
Residential Loans	10,002,094.00	5.50%
Farm Loans	18,097,561.00	5.58%
Total	$67,362,087.00	5.72%
Bonds bought and B. & M. Loans made	$131,178,427.00	5.84%
B. & M. Loans renewed	$12,991,730.00	5.50%
Total	$144,170,157.00	5.83%

This total—$144,000,000.00—was much more than our net income. The Committee believed it saw an opportunity to benefit you through selling and reinvesting, without risk, in order to increase the earning power of invested assets. They therefore sold Bonds amounting to (par value) $44,845,483.00 during the year, of which $33,182,900.00 were United States Government Bonds. By this process, and by transferring certain foreign bonds in reinsuring foreign business, they increased the earning power of Ledger Assets by over $1,000,000.00 annually for an average of nine years.

We sold Government Bonds—

- 1st. Because our holdings were proportionately too large in Peace days ($120,000,000 par);
- 2d. Because we could sell at a profit;
- 3d. Because thereby earning power could be increased and the cost of your insurance reduced.

HUGE AUTO SHOW REOPENS TODAY WITH 500 CARS

BY J. L. JENKINS.

Doors of the Coliseum and 131st Infantry armory will reopen at 10 o'clock this morning to the world's greatest army of automobile fans, and the twenty-fourth National Automobile Show will be off for the week's run which, judging from Saturday's attendance records, will mark the biggest exposition in industrial history.

Throughout the week the 500 glimmering cars offered as the ultimate development in American industry, their dangerous illustrations in the form of getaway chassis and electrically powered working parts, and the deluge of new accessories will be on view from a.m. to 10:30 p.m. each day, including Saturday, Feb. 2. The huge corps expert mechanics and still more expert salesmen will be on hand at all hours to explain mechanical intricacies, demonstrate the advantages of the many improvements adopted by manufacturers during the year, and extend the dotted line of sales contracts.

Salon Crowd Sets Record.

While the national exposition was closed to the public the largest second day attendance in nine years was marked up at the Automobile Sales in the Drake. The crowds at this brilliant display found ample time to examine the forty motor "aristocrats" on the salon floor. The leading cars of four European nations and a dozen or more well known American makes are exhibited. Each exhibits its special construction, built body, and no two are alike. Together they strive to introduce the new styles in coach work and to disclose distinctive, if not radical, changes in this industrial art. Lines on the show bodies are more finely drawn and colors are more subdued than those shown in any previous year.

Show Four-Wheel Brakes.

The salon presents three distinct types of four-wheel brakes and furnishes an opportunity to study these compared with the front-wheel type. The original mechanical type of front-wheel brake is shown on several of the foreign models. Hydraulic brakes of the latest type are shown on both European and American cars, and the most approved methods of brake operation are graphically illustrated by attending engineers.

Of equal interest is the new fabric body construction shown on both Packard and Lincoln chassis at the salon, in addition to those built up on Ford and Dodge chassis in the armory.

Manufacturers of many popular American cars have open classes exhibiting their newest and most advanced. Each exhibits its special construction, built body, and no two are alike. Together they strive to introduce the new styles in coach work and to disclose distinctive, if not radical, changes in this industrial art. Lines on the show bodies are more finely drawn and colors are more subdued than those shown in any previous year.

Many Features on View.

There are innumerable other features in chassis and custom body, in equipment and fittings, and in mechanical achievements to be seen on salon cars.

One device of unusual interest is the "super-charger" shown on the German Mercedes models. This device, designed to fill the cylinders with explosive mixture at high temperatures, interested American engineers who were present at the last Indianapolis race. It was used on the German racing cars with questionable success, according to American speed standards.

The device has now been adapted to stock motors and has gained the approval of many leading European engineers.

HUNDREDS DEAD FROM BLIZZARD IN NEAR EAST

ATHENS, Jan. 27.—The temperature dropped to 20 degrees below zero Centigrade, during a furious blizzard in Macedonia yesterday.

A section of the Simplon express for Athens is snowed in between Saloniiki and Larissa and wireless appeals for immediate assistance are being made. The American and British passengers aboard say they are freezing.

At Saloniiki 100 Turks ready for repatriation froze to death in the refugee camp and fifty already embarked on the steamer Dina for Smyrna froze to death.

The number of Greek refugees from Asia who have been frozen to death in Macedonia since the blizzard began today is expected to run into the thousands, as many are living outdoors.

It was the coldest day in Macedonia for more than 100 years.

Seek Move to Stop Use of Glue Seams in Clothes

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—To induce the National Association of Retail Clothiers to curb manufacturing clothes with glued seams and composition buttons that dissolve in the process of cleaning is the object of a conference which will be opened Monday night between the clothiers and cleaners and dyers. The cleaners say losses aggregating $50,000,000 are sustained yearly by wearers of glued clothes. Their association membership last year numbered 25,000 houses of that nature.

Putting it Over

In Circulation

Here is a story of progress that grips the imagination of everyman who knows the meaning of newspaper building.

In March, 1920, the Evening American had the largest 2-cent circulation ever attained by any Chicago evening newspaper.

In June, 1920, the price of the Evening American was increased to 3 cents.

"The Evening American has cooked its own goose!"

That's what many trained Chicago newspapermen said. But here is how the goose was cooked:

Consistent gains in circulation since the establishment of the 3-cent price, despite the fact that the only other

Chicago evening newspaper of wide circulation continued to sell at 2 cents.

From which it is evident that the circulation of the Evening American is absolutely identified; that its readers' preference does not depend upon price but upon interest and confidence in their favorite newspaper.

It is unique indeed to have a reader audience so sharply identified in a great city where there are four evening newspapers from which to choose.

The Evening American has been the first evening newspaper in Chicago in point of circulation since June, 1921. Its substantial gains, month after month, is largely in the city and suburbs, a fact of tremendous import to local advertisers.

Latest Available Daily Average Circulation Figures

EVENING AMERICAN (3 cents)	Jan. 1 to Jan. 25, 1924 . . .	427,552
Daily News	(2 cents)	Dec., 1923, Statement . . .	383,261

In Advertising

In building a newspaper that created such reader interest, reader confidence and reader demand that the public preferred to pay more for it, the Evening American automatically developed for its advertisers a medium of great efficiency. This is so because no newspaper can ever become more valuable to its advertisers than it is recognized to be valuable to its readers.

With its ever-increasing popularity bringing consistent gains in circulation, there has come to the Evening American a steady flow of advertising.

The Evening American's average yearly percentage of gain in display advertising from 1918 to 1923 is 54%; that of the next evening newspaper over the same period 31%. In every year since 1918 the Evening American's percentage of gain in display advertising has exceeded that of its principal competitor. Here are the figures:

Percentage of Gain in Total Display Advertising

	Percentage of gain		Percentage of gain
Evening American's 1923 gain over 1922 . . .	18.5%	Next evening paper . . .	8.4%
Evening American's 1922 gain over 1921 . . .	26.0%	Next evening paper . . .	12.2%
Evening American's 1921 gain over 1920 . . .	39.8%	Next evening paper . . .	4.8%
Evening American's 1920 gain over 1919 . . .	44.4%	Next evening paper . . .	43.8%

The Fourth
By ROBERT

Young Rod Norwood, setting a rifle from Lake Deception in the hands of his father, comes into the district only because of the terror he has inspired by his legs condition. Rod is frightened, hurries eagerly toward home.

He breaks the news of The Spider. Tom Norwood, tries to dispel the child. Gruen loses his legs years before when a violent storm overcame him. The Spider, changed by the desire for battle, and decides to make a home and declares he is there to stay.

After attending school for six years he has just bought a new post for his home. The following spring Rod, in New York, goes back to school at Toronto and Rod replies to the Norwood post telling him that Gruen knows how it happened.

INSTANTLY

Then it was a confident, brazen boy drawn up at the river with orders that the precious bale Red himself hurried ahead to make was not until the fur was safely in his hands that he turned to the table.

As he entered the dining room by a rushing black figure. Dazed, his week and that her bright, laughing there, returning her kisses but could not happen, that he must forbear aware of another presence in the room.

At first he did not comprehend appearance, had instinctively requested him to remain at home. This was also, he knew, a great element of danger. The struggle with The Spider might flare into open hostility any moment, and she must be aware not only from the danger of it, and the knowledge of how her father died. But through these imperious thoughts something else obstructed self and his eyes kept turning toward the table. Several blue clad men sat there, a white trapper couple of half-breeds, a dark skin girl from the Rat Portage mine. He saw them all, understood the beauty he saw, recognized dimly Men were rising from the table.

Rod bowed to the girl, shook her hand. "You know Beth at college, I suppose?"

"O, no. We only met here two weeks ago."

"It is marvelous the way she means already. I don't know whether she seems to me the bravest girl in the world we will see a girl like her."

"I see," Rod said, and some of his voice. "Beth has asked you to go with us."

"Does that frighten you?" Miss Ransom looked quickly again. But both, heedless, impudent young men.

"They can go in with us!"

"I think we are fortunate," Miss Ransom said.

"Our original plan was to go to the wilderness. Then, when we heard of the Indians, we decided to go to the wilderness."

"No," Red answered, "I am not afraid of Indians."

"Don't you know when his brother was killed?"

"I haven't any idea."

Miss Ransom looked quickly again. But both, heedless, impudent young men.

"They can go in with us!"

"But they can go with us,"

"With us here. And with us, the Indians scatter."

"Of course," Red agreed. "I am up to it."

"As I understand it, the Indians are gathered at Lake Deception the sooner I get there the more I can do."

"There are about three hundred but they will scatter as soon as I gather again at Lake Seignewaw."

"But couldn't they be induced to follow me?"

Time Goes On Giving Us Matching Hats, Scarves

Crime Love

NEW YORK—[Special Correspondence]—A hat nowadays has as many near-relatives to go out with it as an ailing and wealthy spinster aunt. The passion for her matched by scarf, and perhaps even by parasol, is, in fact, one of those devastating emotions from which time never delivers us. Year after year we have been attacked by this fever to relate our millinery with our scarfs, and still we greet the mode as if it were the brightest and newest of thoughts.

At the left this inexorable fancy is represented in a hat formed of petals cut from batik crepe shading from white to pink and just suggesting the faintest touch of yellow. This is accompanied by a scarf of white knitted silk—this is smart for scarfs at present—this is hand painted in pink morning glories and fringed in mingled pink and white.

The second example occurs in a hat of madonna blue crepe trimmed in folds of contrasting white ribbon, the ribbon caught with a rhinestone bar centered in jet. This gives the cue to a scarf of madonna blue knitted silk striped in white and bearing a stylized motif in white crepe. The little parasol repeats this tint of blue and then proceeds to a handle of light mahogany with exquisite hand carvings.

This second hat encodes the whim for ribbons, trimming which has shaken the entire millinery world.

Everything nowadays is ribbon, and high on the list come the plaided and striped effects. The Roman stripe is especially esteemed.

Latest Table Furnishings.

The great etiquette devotees would fasten us to custom and use by rather iron hard and fast chains. Persons who make etiquette or establish custom and use in the manners realm do nothing of the sort.

For instance, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter recently in talking in a great store on "Table Arrangements for Home and Country Luncheons and the Formal Dinner," said at the start:

"Nothing arbitrary, that is the whole point."

Of course, Mrs. Carpenter, known in more than one great city for her taste as decorator, society woman, a frequent and widely traveled person, and a minger with the smart people of the world, speaks with singular authority.

For the center of her dinner table she would always make a design, but she does not believe it necessary to be absolutely literal to get your effects. On an Italian table with Italian linens, for instance, certain fine Italian china may give you a picture which did not harmonize plates may fit in with the center design perfectly. Perhaps you have some of that old glass. It is decidedly in the mode.

Mrs. Carpenter believes in color and in making a luncheon table as gay as you like with it, but she would not use colored glass on an elegant table and that is what many people are doing today. And, by the way, in placing the dinner plates, she said let us have two (one on top of the other, the top smaller) because "it looks more grand."

The newest luncheon cloths are lavender and green, and the chimes of other colors is used to match such gayety, or to secure a color and agreeable effect. And for the long and long luncheon cloths which does not completely cover the table wholly she quite a disputed question today.

ITALY AND SERBS SIGN PACT; END FIVE YEARS' ROW

Fiume Celebrates When Annexed to Italy.

BY GEORGE SELDES.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

ROME, Jan. 27.—[Tribune Radio.]—The treaty of Rome, which Premier Mussolini of Italy and Premier Patchitch and Foreign Minister Nischich of Jugo-Slavia signed yesterday, has been ratified as a "treaty of friendship," and ends five years of dispute. An "Accord of Fiume" also was signed, but must be ratified by the parliaments of both countries or by royal decree.

Fiume remains Italian, but Jugo-Slavia obtains port and other concessions.

Thus Gabriel d'Annunzio's militarism actually has brought results, although today he is almost discredited and forgotten.

Italy was made doubly happy today when it was announced that Princess Yolande had given birth to a girl.

Fiume Celebrates

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

Fiume, Jan. 27.—The boozing of cannon from a gun and the blowing of whistles heralded the end of the five year struggle between Italy and Jugo-Slavia for this city. Franck cheers from 10,000 throats of Fiumans who had paraded the streets from early morning awaiting the news of the signing of the treaty, greeted the boozing guns.

To Fiume, the capital of what the optimists signified to the world after the great war, and tears mingled with the laughter in the rejoicing over the coming peace and new era of prosperity for the war torn city.

The news of the signing of the treaty at Rome was immediately followed by a ceremony in front of the palace where Dr. Grossich, first president of the free state of Fiume and also famous for inventing iodine for treating wounds, leading a delegation of men, expressed joy over Fiume finally having been annexed to the "mother country."

It was around this same palace that Gabriele d'Annunzio harangued his legionaries and, where later, former President Zanella directed the ill fated free state for twelve months.

Yet bears marks of shells fired from an Italian boat before M. Zanella was driven, as a refugee, into Jugo-Slavia.

Thousands carry Italian banners.

Thousands of people congregated, carrying Italian banners. They interrupted the ceremonies with cries of "Viva l'Italia!" "Viva Mussolini!" "Viva d'Annunzio;" "Viva Fiume."

"Viva Giardino." Some Italians were even heard to cry, "Viva la Jugo-Slavia."

There was wild enthusiasm when Gen. Giardino, the governor, presented the Italian flag.

"Your flag. Now forget and forgive," he said.

A parade and a big display of fireworks tonight wound up the celebration.

Across the little creek to Jugo-Slavia territory there is no sign of rejoicing in the solution of the Fiume problem.

Identify Trio Who Beat Stab, and Rob Citizen

Three men arrested by the Des Moines street "fifteen squad" were identified yesterday as the trio who robbed, stabbed, and beat Frank Rabel of 1048 West Adams Street. The men given their names as George Fink, 245 West Madison street; Joseph Brady and Joseph Bradley, 809 West Madison street.

U. S. BUILDING OF SKYSCRAPERS ON WANE, IS CLAIM

Building of American skyscrapers is on the wane, mainly owing to construction costs, according to Earle Shultz, president of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers. Mr. Shultz will preside at a three day session of presidents of local units of the association which opens today in Hotel La Salle.

The building managers represent $3,000,000,000 worth of property in the principal cities of the country.

"During the war years nearly every large city was faced with an acute shortage of office building space," said Mr. Shultz last night. "After the war there was such a strong demand for space that, regardless of construction costs, innumerable office buildings went up. But now that the demand has been largely filled we shall probably see building operations tapering off for some time to come."

"The new space that has been put on the market is necessarily high priced, because of the cost of building material and the unprecedented wages paid to labor. It is an exceptional building that will produce as high an income as 6 per cent."

What the motor car owner has the right to expect for his money

Somewhere in the wide range of car prices there must be a par value. There is. Make the following elements your guide in selecting the 100% car.

- Appearance in such good taste that it perpetuates itself.
- Comfort that invites immediate and complete relaxation.
- Riding qualities that do not disturb that relaxation.
- Operating controls so accessible they seem to come naturally to the hand.
- A motor flexibility so swift and smooth in action that without apparent effort the car steps out ahead, brakes soft and yet so positive as to insure control under any and all conditions—a large safety reserve.
- Durability established by co-ordination and balance of recognized standard units and practices, with ample factors of safety throughout.
- A transportation service rendered that is nearly constant—with tire mileage extraordinarily high and gasoline and oil consumption extraordinarily low plus car design that permits easy accessibility for the exchange of interchangeable parts.
- Wide recognition, insuring high re-sale value.
- Reasonably priced without compromise as to quality, luxury or price.

All these, correlated, constitute the hundred per cent value to be found in the Haynes.

Ideal for the American Motorist

Americans like to do things with speed—they like to drive up to the curb, shut off the motor and hop out. They haven't the patience to tinker around. This is one of the reasons the Hershey Theft-proof Lock is designed so that the very procedure mentioned above is possible, but at the same time locking the car is insured.

It took ten years of designing and manufacturing of automobile locks to perfect this Concurrent Automobile Lock—one that interlocks ignition and car lock in such a manner that there is no way left to forget using it.

Designs made to fit any car. Descriptive pamphlet mailed on request.

new automobiles will be sold in St. Louis territory this year

CAR MANUFACTURERS who really know their sales possibilities, realize that here is one of the country's most productive automobile markets.

When they think of St. Louis, they think of the 49th State—the rich, self-sustaining, 150 mile area of which this city is the trading center. They think of Moberly, Mo., Belleville, Ill., Jefferson City, Sedalia, Collinsville, and a score or more of thriving, wealthy towns—each an outlet well worth cultivating.

They know that car registrations in this territory in 1922 reached a total of 508,354—that in 1923 this increased to over 575,000. They know that for 1924 the replacement market alone will run over 100,000 cars and that increased prosperity in this section indicates a much greater total market than ever before.

They know too, that they can tap the car buying power of this entire territory by strong, consistent advertising in one newspaper—the St. Louis Globe Democrat. They know that the Globe Democrat not only gives a powerful impetus to retail sales but is a tremendous force with the trade itself. They know that every day the Globe Democrat goes into 90,000 homes outside of St. Louis where it is the one buying guide. And in the city of St. Louis, everyone knows that the Globe Democrat is the one dominant selling power for automobile and automotive products.

Small wonder then that in 1923 the Globe Democrat led all papers in this territory in passenger car and truck display advertising by 79,584 lines!

Are you getting all you should get from this great market? Are you giving your dealers the advertising and sales backing they must have here in order to make the most of their opportunities?

The 49th State

This is a composite map. Add the portions. Put St. Louis down as capital. It's a circle. About 150 miles in diameter contains 1/6 million. Its wealth is based on a wider variety of natural resources and industrial processes than any other city can claim. The Globe Democrat covers the entire 49th state. No other paper even comes near coverage.

SARAZEN BEATS HAVERS, 5-4, FOR NEW GOLF CROWN

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 27.—[Associated Press]—Gene Sarazen, American professional golf champion, defeated Arthur Havers, British open titleholder, 5 and 4, in a twenty-two hole match for the unofficial world's professional championship, begun in San Francisco Friday and completed at the Hillcrest Country club course here this afternoon.

Sarazen came out of the first thirty-six hole round in San Francisco with a lead of three holes, and this he increased to five during the last eighteen holes today, checkmating Havers at the end of the sixty-eighth hole.

Helen Miller Play.

At the start of today's round, Helen began to fall, but a gallery of 2,000 remained, following the play with unquenched interest.

Sarazen made the final fourteen holes in 56. Havers 59. Cards for the day's thirty-two holes:

Sarazen, 129; Havers, 133. Cards for the entire sixty-eight holes: Sarazen, 280; Havers, 286.

Havers halved eight holes of the final 36 this morning and threatened, with one down, to tie the match, but the American took the next two, returning his lead of 2 up.

Poor putting was but good approach feature today's flight. The British champion held his own in a more accurate approach in one direction, but frequently was short. At times the putting was amateurish. On the twelfth and twenty-first Sarazen missed four foot putts, while most of Havers' were short.

The tall champion from the British Isles really lost nothing in his bid for the amateur world title by missing a four foot putt in the fifth hole of the afternoon play when he tapped it short. He repeated the performance identically on the sixth. These two placed Sarazen 4 up.

Record for Sarazen.

"He deserved to win," Havers said in complimenting the American champion.

"I had a lot better luck on the green than Havers did," was Sarazen's counter.

By winning Sarazen preserved his record of never having lost an important match play.

Havers throughout the match showed brilliant approach ability in so far as direction was concerned, but in most cases he was short an average of from 20 to 60 feet on massive shots of 50 to 100 yards.

Havers were even in driving, with nothing over 210 yards, but many around 200 and two plaudits for their direction and placement.

In the morning the Britisher had Sarazen as low as 1 up, at the eighth hole, followed, however, by a quick recovery on the American player's part.

IRISH SKI STAR LEADS NORSEMAN AT GRAND BEACH

BY FRANK HINMAN.

(Pictures on back page.)
Grand Beach, Mich., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—The fact that the Norwegians have no monopoly on the sport of ski jumping was again demonstrated here this afternoon, when Harry Reilly, the world's only Irish ski jumper, hopped into first place in the second annual tournament of the Grand Beach Ski club.

Reilly, with a total of 259 points, took clear A honor by a margin of 15 points over Sven Wulhaven of Milwaukee, who upheld the ancient traditions of the Norsemen by piling up 264 points for second place.

In class B, Reldar Lund, the local rider, jumped into first place, while the next five places went to jumpers from the Norge Ski club of Chicago.

Good Crowd on Hand.

The weather ideal for skiing, and only the fact that most of the middle west ski enthusiasts had had their ears, toes and fingers frozen at Cary, Ill., met a week ago, kept the crowd down. As it was between 3,500 and 4,000 fans saw the meet and they were treated to a wonderful exhibition of jumping.

The slides and hill were in excellent condition and though the jumps were not as long as those registered at the Cary meet, they were far more graceful and the crowd saw some real riding instead of a lot of jumpers sliding down the hill on the backs of their necks. Not a ski was broken during the meet and there was not more than a dozen falls in both classes.

Reilly, Out in Front.

Twelve jumpers competed in the class A meet, but the trial showed that it was to be a battle between Reilly and Hansen. In the first regular jump Barney got a leap of 112 feet, 3 feet less than Hans' first hop, but Hans fell on his second jump and was put out of the running.

In the women's event, first prize went to Svenne Strandland, with Mary Larsen second and Lois Hansen third. None of the girls tried any jumping, however, contenting themselves with sliding down the long hill.

Next Sunday most of the jumpers who competed here will jump at meets in Milwaukee and Canton, S. D.

FINN, NORWEGIAN SKATERS SWEEP OLYMPIC RACES

OLYMPIC SUMMARIES

CHAMONIX, Jan. 27.—[By the Associated Press.]—The ice speed skating events of the Olympic games decided today follow:

1,000 METRE RACE—Won by Thunberg, (Finland); Larsen, (Norway) second; Moes, (Norway) third; Stenseth, (Norway) fourth; Stenseth, (Norway) fifth; German, (Canada) tied for sixth and ninth; German, (Canada) eighth. Time 1:58.4-6.

10,000 METRE RACE—Won by Skutnabb, (Finland); Thunberg, (Finland) second; Larsen, (Norway) third; Paulsen, (Norway) fourth; Stenseth, (Norway) fifth; Moes, (Norway) sixth. Time 15:4.6-5.

BY DON SKENE.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.] [Copyright 1924: By the Chicago Tribune.] CHAMONIX, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—

The American big guns in the Olympic skating war were silenced today by an overwhelming attack of the Finnish and Norwegian ice forces. The fleet of Finn and dashing Norwegian captured every point in the 1,000 meter and 10,000 meter races marking the winter sport program of the Olympic games today.

Finland maintained first place among the competing nations through the brilliant work of its two greatest skating aces, Glas Thunberg and Julian Skutnabb, giant bronzed viking, who is equally good in sprints and long distances.

Thunberg won the 1,500 meter dash this morning, with Skutnabb fourth. This afternoon Skutnabb won the 10,000 meter race, with Thunberg second.

U. S. Lends Third.

Norway's well balanced team stars took all the other points, scoring places in both events. The point standing is Finland, 10; Norway, 39 1/2; United States, 11; Sweden, 1.

Tonight Thunberg, who also won the 5,000 meter race yesterday, is hailed as an outstanding hero in the present games and is called one of the greatest skaters the north ever produced. He is a modest champion. When he won the second Olympic event this morning a squad of American correspondents were forced to grab him and hold him before the camera in order to allow him time to shoot a closeup of his blushing face.

The American showing in the 1,500 meter event was disappointing. Harry Kaskey of Chicago led the forlorn American attack, finishing seventh. Joe Moore and Charles Jewtraw were tied for eighth place, while Bill Stein metz of Chicago could not get going right and finished two places behind.

The feature of this morning's race was the great battle between Thunberg and Larsen of Norway, which the Finn won after a nip and tuck finish. It was by far the fastest heat of the day, giving Thunberg first place and Larsen second.

Chicago Boy Besieled.

The heat between Thunberg and Skutnabb furnished the biggest thrill in the 10,000 meter event. The pair played each other beautifully, Skutnabb keeping the lead throughout, with his greater speed, him on the driving speed. Thunberg was generally picked to win, but it was evident during the race that Skutnabb would be the victor because of Thunberg's strength being sapped by the previous races.

Coach Bill Taylor of the American team switched the lineup at the last minute in an effort to make a good showing. Joe Moore replaced Jewtraw and Kaskey for Seimets, but the grind proved too long for the American speed merchants, who are better in short distances. Moore got twelfth place and Kaskey thirteenth among sixteen starters.

Quaglia, French star, made a desperate effort to break the Finn and Norwegian monopoly, but only got seventh. An unfortunate incident occurred when, through a mixup of the officials, Quaglia was forced to race one extra lap.

American Lads Game.

Today's results showed that the Americans and Canadians do not compare with the Scandinavian skating wizards. The only thing the Americans had was gameness in every entry, racing themselves to a standstill. The Americans congratulated the winners and did not offer any alibis, although Coach Taylor pointed out that the team was handicapped through lack of practice.

The hockey players will out the skaters from the limelight tomorrow when the final battles begin.

Switzerland will meet Sweden, the United States will clash with Belgium, and Czechoslovakia will play Canada. The lineup of the United States team is: Goal, Laeroux of Boston; guards, Smith of Boston and Abel of St. Paul; center, Drury of Pittsburgh; right wing, McCarthy of Boston; left wing, Rice of Boston. The women's figure skating also will hold forth tomorrow.

Sweden Deny Sid Protest.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 27.—Swedish sporting authorities deny that Sweden has protested against Anders Haugen, Hans Hansen, and Ragnar Omvist representing the United States in the ski sports at Chamonix.

T. LOUR, Mo., Jan. 27.—
(Special)—George H. Lourie, manager of the St. Louis Americans, who has been out of the game because of a vision defect, declared in a letter recently here that he is working out in California, and that when team reports for spring training he hopes to be in a position to take his place.

The letter states that his work consists of batting, catching, swinging, and running.

The letter says that his vision defect bothers him more in catching than in running.

Vanderbilt Avenue Building.

M. D. C.—The Vanderbilt Avenue Building corporation is holding $3,000,000 first mortgage loaned 6% per cent bonds secured by a choice first mortgage on New York Central terminal leasehold property opposite the entrance to the Grand Central terminal station, extending along Vanderbilt avenue from 42d to 48th streets. New York City, comprising about 16,250 square feet of land. This is important as a six story store and office building, to which have been added eleven stories, making a seventeen-story building. The value of the improvements is appraised at not less than $25,000,000, or 1½ times the amount of the bond issue. The $3,000,000 mortgage will be placed on the property with consent of the N. Y. C. railroad company, and the fee, and no mortgage can be created on land or buildings ranking prior to or ratably with this mortgage. The lease extends beyond the maturity date of these bonds. Average rentals from the existing six story building are given as $25,000 per month, estimated annual earnings of the completed structure, available for interest and sinking fund, $2,541,249, equivalent after preferred stock dividends, to $18.36 a share on the $15,000,000 common stock outstanding. In the previous year net profits were $2,111,063, equivalent to $18.87 a share on the common stock.

After paying dividends at the annual rate of 6 per cent last year on the common stock and paying premiums averaging $14.96 a share, there was a balance of $15,514,023 to be added to surplus, which now stands at $5,616,000.

The balance sheet shows current assets of $15,105,067, compared with $15,516,066 on Nov. 30, 1922. Inventories increased $1,426,363, and receivables $1,262,701. Current liabilities totaled $2,465,000, an increase of $1,152,279. Reserve for contingencies was $1,750,000, an increase of $250,000.

How success has lessened the chances in this more hazardous of industries is told briefly in the following paragraphs from an article by W. Maryland:

"The United States contains 5,000,000 acres of land. Of this amount so far 2,000,000 acres have produced oil in commercial quantities.

"Geologists tell us that 60 per cent of the United States will not produce oil under any circumstances; it simply is not made of the right stuff."

"That leaves us about 1,000,000 acres of possible territory. They are further and point out that, of this acreage, perhaps as much as 750,000,000 acres are not built right to produce oil, or in other words, are 'of structure.' By keeping us away from impossible territory, and pointing out the vast amount of improvable acreage in possible territory, and occasionally finding oil in a structure, geology has improved our chances of finding oil. Possibly the oil man with a good geological department has one chance in ten or twenty, as the case might be, of opening up a new pool, where the wildcatter, without such help, has only one in one or two hundred."

What a small margin of oil the country travels upon, is indicated by Mr. Maryland's statement that if no new wells are drilled in the United States in sixty years there would be neither the unmined reserves of $1,000,000,000 barrels or twice that amount. In either event they are distressingly small when we realize the security of both our industry and of our nation is builded thereon."

Brief Answers.

T. P. F., Lincoln, Neb.—The Oregon Bridge company first mortgaged its property on completion of the improvements at approximately not less than $25,000,000, or 1½ times the amount of the bond issue. The $25,000,000 mortgage will be placed on the property with consent of the N. Y. C. railroad company, and the fee, and no mortgage can be created on land or buildings ranking prior to or ratably with this mortgage. The lease extends beyond the maturity date of the decline of the present wells would wipe out all the existing overproducing.

The improvement in the methods of hunting oil brings nearer the day when the problem of exhaustion will no longer be speculative.

"With all this intensive search and the advances of science, it is not strange that new pools are being discovered faster than their contents can be consumed. During the last decade some of the great oil companies have had many technically trained men constantly studying the possible oil regions mile by mile."

"The increasing amounts of oil being produced year by year and the overproduction that has occurred do not indicate the unmined reserves are greater than first estimated, but rather that methods of finding are improving more rapidly than consumption is increasing. This improvement should not cause us to forget that every field opened makes exactly one less that can be found."

"It matters little whether the unmined reserves are $1,000,000,000 barrels or twice that amount. In either event they are distressingly small when we realize the security of both our industry and of our nation is builded thereon."

This improvement should not cause us to forget that every field opened makes exactly one less that can be found."

"It matters little whether the unmined reserves are $1,000,000,000 barrels or twice that amount. In either event they are distressingly small when we realize the security of both our industry and of our nation is builded thereon."

the decline of the present wells would wipe out all the existing overproducing.

The improvement in the methods of hunting oil brings nearer the day when the problem of exhaustion will no longer be speculative.

"With all this intensive search and the advances of science, it is not strange that new pools are being discovered faster than their contents can be consumed. During the last decade some of the great oil companies have had many technically trained men constantly studying the possible oil regions mile by mile."

CAPITAL BELLE SUICIDE; SOCIAL WHIRL VICTIM

Daughter of W. P. G. Harding Kills Self.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 28.—(Special)—Mrs. Margaret Harding, beautiful 23 year old society girl and daughter of former P. G. Harding, governor of the Federal Reserve bank here and former master of the whole federal reserve system, shot herself to death because she knew lung hemorrhage caused by a game she set in the social world was killing her.

This became known tonight following the funeral of the favorite of New York, Washington, and Boston young society circles when her father bared the events leading up to the suicide.

Father Warned Her.

During the last eighteen months, Mr. Harding disclosed, he had pleaded with his daughter to give up the swift set society, with balls, dances, cigarettes and late hours, together with mad dashes from this city to New York and Washington to attend this function or that. He warned her that the life was killing on her, he said, and pleaded with her to settle down to a more serious society life and prepare as mistress for a new home he had purchased.

She finally promised to have one round of social functions in the month in which she was accustomed to have them, chose the current season in Boston. But before she had attended "just one last party," her collapse under the strain and at home.

She had locked doors in her room, was suffering from an hemorrhage and then fired a shot into her breast. Two days later the medical examiner closed the door, and when Mr. Harding, summoned hurriedly from York, arrived, accompanied by Margaret's sister, Mrs. Eugene Thayer, and Mr. Thayer's son, a note waited the father.

Dear Father, the note read. I am going to cause you more trouble than you have had troubles enough, but I can't help it. Lots of love.

MARGARET.

Not once tonight, as the father told the whole story of what brought on the girl's death, did Mr. Harding say a word of reproach for her sonorous. His story was told in the manner of a father explaining how one of his children had made a mistake.

Margaret Harding, he said, loved excitement. She grew up motherless, lived in her early teens she watched with envious eyes her older sisters as they went to balls.

Face Began to Tell.

When she was "presented" to society she flung herself into a round of gaiety that for some time gladdened her father's heart. She was having a good time—she was happy, and that was his chief aim in life. But the face began to tell.

Eighteen months ago, Harding said, he took over the house at 271 Beacon street and planned to make his Boston home there, with Margaret presiding over it. He hoped she would tire of the gay life, she was leading, and return home. But she loved the social whirl in New York and Washington, where most of her friends were, he said, and she was happy whenever she was in the height of the futile fast of activities.

Up Late; Slept Late.

He tried to get her to take an interest in the affairs of the household to tighten up a bit on social affairs. The high life was beginning to tire her even then, and I believe it was when her health started to give way the strain. She was up until two in the morning and slept until noon. She attended a series of balls and other affairs and had even taken up the habit of smoking cigarettes. She spoke to her, but she would assure me that everything was all right that she was having the time of her life. Finally, she did promise me she would take one more trip to Washington and then come back and never go down again. A trip to Europe was to be her reward.

All her closest friends were in Washington and New York. She spoke often of Allan Mellon, the daughter of the secretary of the treasury, in Washington, and of Millie Rogers of New York, who recently married Count Salm. Here in Boston her dear friend was Anne Hamlin.

Went to New York.

She stayed in Boston from Thanksgiving until a few days before Christmas when we went to New York to
